

Contents

- Eleanor Conlin Casella and Clayton Fredericksen Introduction to the archaeology of confinement in Australia
- Greg Jackman Get Thee to Church: hard work, Godliness and tourism at Australia's first rural reformatory
- Brian Egloff and Richard Morrison 'Here ends, I trust forever, my acquaintance with Port Arthur': the archaeology of William Smith O'Brien's cottage
- Eleanor Conlin Casella Every procurable object: a functional analysis of the Ross Female Factory archaeological collection
- Fiona Starr Convict artefacts from the Civil Hospital privy on Norfolk Island
- Clayton Fredericksen Confinement by isolation: convict mechanics and labour at Fort Dundas, Melville Island
- Martin Gibbs The archaeology of the convict system in Western Australia
- Denis Gojak Convict archaeology in New South Wales: an overview of the investigation, analysis and conservation of convict heritage sites
- Susan Piddock Convicts and the free: nineteenth-century lunatic asylums in South Australia and Tasmania (1830–1883)
- Richard Morrison The Military Prison, Anglesea Barracks, Hobart
- Book Reviews